None. Thanks for the reminder. I'll see if I can give him a little nudge.

Subject: Publication Date

Dear Mr. Harington,

I am a librarian at the United States Patent and Trademark Office. And I am trying to figure out when the December 1997 issue (volume 17) of Cephalalgia was actually published. I have gone online in both MEDLINE and Biosis and these databases indicate that this journal was made available on February 7, 1998 in MEDLINE and on February 24, 1998 in Biosis. Apparently this issue took a while to reach the states, since the date on the cover of the issue is December 1997.

Could you assist me in finding out when this journal actually first became available to your customers? (I'm hoping that as the publisher of record for this journal title, you may have this information on record somewhere) Was it actually printed and released on a day in December and if so what was the actual date? If it was released later than December, it would be very helpful for us to know on what date this issue became publicly available.

This is a time-sensitive question, so a quick response would be very helpful. Thank you so much for your attention to this request.
